

As a frequent flier, the idea of people talking throughout the night on flights overseas is dreadful. I predict that if you were to allow the use of cell phones throughout flights, it would be necessary to have a non-cell phone area for non-users. This is a terrible idea. Thanks for allowing me to respond.